STREET LEVEL SENSING™ & WASTE CONTROL SERVICE

Relay technology has helped make Pittsburgh an even better place to live. Sensor-equipped waste bins send the city real-time data, monitoring everything from fullness to street-level conditions. Now that crews can optimize their collection routes, a job that once required 25 people now only takes eight. Allowing workers to focus on other pressing tasks, including street repairs, cleaning up vacant lots, and improving street-level conditions in disadvantaged areas.
